FUCHS LUBRICANTS CO ANNOUNCES THE ACQUISITION OF DYLON INDUSTRIES, INC.

HARVEY, IL, August 3, 2009 --FUCHS Lubricants Co., a subsidiary of Fuchs Petrolub, AG, announces the acquisition of Dylon Industries, Inc. of Cleveland, Ohio. FUCHS is a leading global manufacturer and supplier of specialty lubricants and chemicals to the metalworking industries. Through this acquisition FUCHS further strengthens its position in the metalforming marketplace. Dylon Industries, Inc. has been a leading provider of forging compounds, lubricants and specialty chemicals worldwide for over forty years. The addition of the Dylon's product portfolio will complement FUCHS existing line of specialty lubricants.

"The coalescence of Fuchs and Dylon will enrich service for customers by providing a more complete line of forging products to both national and international markets," said Steve Puffpaff, President and COO of Fuchs Lubricants Co.

"We are pleased to have this opportunity to strengthen our commitment to superior service to our customers," said Mr. Puffpaff. "The combined research and development efforts of Fuchs and Dylon will allow us to offer a more comprehensive support system to our customers."
